

Society for the History of War

New Voices in the History of War Twitter Conference #NVHOW20

Friday 25 September 2020

Presentations: 13:00-17:00

Society AGM: 17:00-17:30

Keynote speech by Professor Beatrice Heuser and twitter Q&A: 17:30-18:30

The Society for the History of War is hosting a twitter conference that provides a forum for doctoral students, early career researchers and those with an interest in presentations will be delivered in a minimum of 6, and a maximum of 12, threaded tweets the history of war from any discipline to present their work.

Michael Sewell, PhD candidate, University of Essex- 'Using the British Civil War in Colchester in the early nineteenth century'. @Mike_Sewell

Liam Markey, PhD candidate, University of Liverpool – 'Living Memory and the Commemoration of the First World War in Britain'. @Liam_Markey94

Nataša Henig Mišičič, PhD candidate, University of Nova Gorica, Slovenia – 'Humanitarian work of the Carniolan Savings Bank during the First World War'. @NMiscic

Dr. Joel Morley – 'Young men's encounters with the Great War in interwar Britain'. @JoelMMorley

Dr. Stephen Moore – 'The Bethnal Green Shelter Disaster'. @smooreBofB1940

Alice Tofts, PhD candidate, Imperial War Museums/University of Nottingham – 'An affective and reflective approach to studying Holocaust memory and photographs'. @alice.tofts

Harriet Jackson, Assistant Curator - "This Whole Wretched Mess": Representations of the First World War in Children's Literature'. @harrietj1928

Jonathan Ruffle, Writer and radio producer- "TOMMIES"– 'The First World War as BBC Radio Drama'. @jonathanruffle

Grace Stephenson, PhD candidate, University of Durham – 'Newsreels and the Narrative of World War II: Then and Now'. @GStephensonHist

Dr Victoria Woodman – 'Waiting is the Women's Role: the Falklands Conflict (1982) media representation of Royal Navy Wives'. @v_woodman

Francesca Hooft, PhD candidate, Utrecht University, Netherlands - 'Hippocrates under arms: adaptation, cooperation, and agency'. @FrancescaHooft

Hannah West, PhD candidate, University of Bath - 'What did YOU do in the war, Mummy?'. @hannah_r_west

Keynote speech and twitter Q&A: Professor Beatrice Hauser – Compassion and War.

Conference Committee: John Beales, PhD candidate (Keele University/Imperial War Museums) @JohnMBeales; Professor Catherine Fletcher (Manchester Metropolitan University) @cath_fletcher; Dr. Matthew Ford (University of Sussex) @warmatters

Details of the Society for the History of War can be found at <https://www.show.org.uk>. Annual membership is £25 and membership queries should be directed to info@show.org.uk. Follow the Society for the History of War on Twitter: